Geography and Environment

Historically, the countryside was characterized by vast open spaces, lush fields, forests, rivers, and hills. The natural environment played a central role in shaping the lifestyle and economic activities of rural communities.

- Agricultural Land: The primary feature of the countryside was its extensive farmland used for growing crops and raising livestock.

- Settlements: Villages and hamlets were often scattered, with homes built close to farms or communal areas.

The landscape was less altered by industrialization, preserving a largely natural and organic environment that supported a sustainable way of life.

Traditional Architecture and Settlements

Buildings in the past countryside were designed using locally available materials and suited to the climate and environment.

- Cottages and Farmhouses: Typically made from stone, wood, or thatch, these homes were simple yet sturdy, built for functionality.
