Background of the Composition

Felix Mendelssohn composed the Wedding March as part of his incidental music for William Shakespeare's A Midsummer Night's Dream, a comedy that premiered in 1595. The music was written in 1842, nearly two centuries after the play's first performance, as Mendelssohn sought to bring Shakespeare's enchanting world to life through music.

The Wedding March specifically appears as the final movement of the suite, originally intended as a processional piece. Its lively, jubilant character makes it ideal for marking the union of two individuals. Mendelssohn's intention was to evoke a sense of celebration and enchantment fitting for a wedding setting.

Adoption as a Wedding Tradition

Although Mendelssohn's Wedding March was not initially conceived as a wedding procession piece, its popularity surged in the 19th century, especially in Britain and America. Queen Victoria, known for popularizing musical and cultural trends, notably used the Wedding March during her own wedding in 1840 to Prince Albert. This royal endorsement catapulted the piece into widespread popularity.

By the late 19th and early 20th centuries, the Wedding March became a staple in wedding ceremonies, often played as the bride entered the venue or exited after vows. Its grandeur and familiarity made it an ideal choice to underscore moments of significance during wedding celebrations.
